Lead with useful visibility

See unfinished registers and responsibilities, prepare staff together and follow up family requests. Connect your school office with useful teaching and learning tools.

Keep teaching work together

One tick for Present, clear absence and late states, dated tasks and accessible homework. Review school-defined assessments and share the approved report. Keep your own curriculum and teaching methods.

Give families a useful connection

Verified parents find linked children, homework, released reports, messages, trip consent, appointments and statements. Protected contact and allergy updates follow school review.

The school around the classroom, connected.

Fees, trips, clubs and shop records. Houses and exam preparation. Selected PDF/CSV reports. Reviewed term and year rollover that reuses the school you have already built.

Less repeated chasing. More clarity about what happens next.

A confident team is a school advantage.

Give new colleagues a thoughtful start and experienced staff useful room to grow. ALCOLN connects private onboarding, practical learning and reviewed school policies with everyday work.

Welcome people well

Choose the staff fields your school needs: next of kin, work history, qualifications, skills and development goals. Colleagues save a draft and submit privately; an authorised school reviewer follows through.

Make development practical

260 short self-study courses cover teaching, early learning, inclusion, dyslexia, ADHD, leadership and parent conversations. Two courses focus on using ALCOLN. Assign suitable learning, set dates and follow progress.

Build shared understanding

Adapt 40 written policy starters or type your own. A named administrator reviews the saved version before staff assignment. Record reading acknowledgements and keep version history.

Public visitors browse course and policy topics. Full content is for authorised accounts. Self-study completion is not an accredited qualification; a reading acknowledgement does not verify practice.

A good start. Relevant support. A team that keeps developing with your school.
